DECLARED WRONG MAN DEAD.

Coachman Mistaken by Jury for His Employer in Baltimore County. BALTIMORE, September 16.-Vincent La

Court, a Frenchman, who was coachman for Mr. Austin McLanahan, at Melvale, Baltimore county, was almost instantaneously killed by breaking his neck while diving from a thirty-foot platform at Greater Electric Park and striking his head on the bottom of the pool about 2:30 o'clock of paper in the pocket of the clothes of the dead man bearing a request to call Mrs. McLanahan by telephone, and the tailor's tag on the inside of the coat and trousers hearing the name of Mr. McLanahan also, led the county authorities to believe that the body was that of Mr. McLanahan, who is a member of the banking house of Alexander Brown & Sons.

The true identity of the dead man was later learned, and Mr. McLanahan, who is visiting his father, Dr. Austin McLanahan, at Chambersburg, Pa., was communicated with by long-distance telephone. When given a description of the dead man Mr. McLanahan stated that it tallied with that of his coachman. Before this conversation with Mr. McLanahan had set at rest the story that he was the dead man a coroner's jury had brought in a verdict declaring the banker dead and announcing that his

Another matter in which the New York City company must show cause concerns the 4th and Madison avenue line. A very large number of complaints have been received about the poor service on this line. The company has offered to put in operation as soon as possible 100 of the huge cars known as the Montreal type, each of which will hold sixty-five passengers, and which will take on no more when the seats are filled. This line has the only roadbed fitted for the operation of these cars. Each car has a large platform front and rear. On the back platform is a pole which will divide the passengers getting on from those getting off. The conductor will stand at that place and collect the fares as people get on. Passengers can get off at the front platform, but no passengers can get on

It was in evidence that Policeman Adams of the first precinct found Moran in the park at 7th street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The officer aroused him and advised him to go home. this attractive little resort. Discouraged by the rainy weather the beginning of the week, a large number of hotel patrons sought their homes in the various cities and larger towns, but those who lingered, and targer towns, but those who impered, and they were a goodly number, were more than repaid by the clear, bracing weather which the week's end has brought.
